Worship This Week

In worship assembly this week we celebrated World religion day- a special day when people around the world think about the many different religions and beliefs that people have.

We looked at how religions may be different: where they worship, who they worship and different festivals they celebrate, but they often teach the same important values—kindness, peace, honesty, and respect.

We listened to the story of the six blind men and the elephant and discovered that when we listen to others, we understand more, and our world becomes a kinder place.

Lost Property

All lost property is now located in the red drawers in our Reception area. You are welcome to pop in any time to look for any missing items. We currently have several coats and black hoodies if you think your child is missing one, please come and check.

Our Christian value this term is Love

Love one another as I have loved you.
(John 15:12)

Kingfishers Investigate ...

This week Kingfisher class have been investigating the impact distance has on a sound source. During this session, the children learnt to practise their measuring and recording skills using tape measures and decibel meter.

Never Under Estimate the Power of a Bedtime Story

A bedtime story is crucial for child development, creating a strong parent-child bond, improving literacy skills, stimulating imagination, and fostering emotional regulation by providing comfort, routine, and a safe space to discuss feelings. You are never too old for a bedtime story!
